

It's all about collaboration

TeamConnect

Everyone is a winner in the..... end.

In all its simplicity, each team is assigned a basic case where you must build your construction - which in the end must be linked together with the other teams.

For you to succeed, there is no such thing as "yours" and "mine" - on the contrary, there is only something called "ours" and everyone must succeed with their construction before it is possible to combine them.

Everyone's constructions are equally important and that is the prerequisite for breaking down silos and achieving success - both in everyday life in the organization, but also for achieving success in this Challenge.

Everyone's resources can come into play. This activity allows non-technical minds to make extraordinary creations and the technical types can play and challenge themselves.

Let's talk about options - Call for more inspiration.
